THE WESLEYAN ALUMNAE

Inauguration of Dr. Johnson As President

The inauguration of Dr. Silas Johnson as the seventeenth president of Wesleyan College took place on Monday, December 2, in the James Hyde Porter Gymnasium on the Rivoli campus at 11:00 A.M.

Mr. William D. Anderson, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presided. Dr. T. D. Ellis, trustee, gave the invocation, and Miss Elizabeth Varley of the music faculty directed the Wesleyan Chorus in the singing of "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach, accompanied by Mrs. Doris O. Jelks, also of the music faculty.

Dr. Johnson's speech after the ceremonial of installation follows:

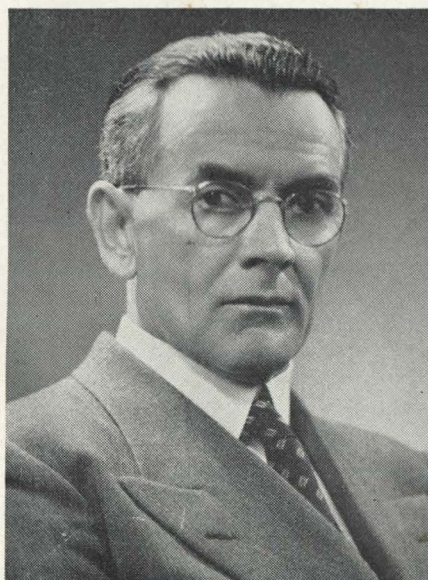

Mr. Chairman, Distinguished Visitors, and Members of the Wesleyan Family:

The Presidency of Wesleyan College is the most signal honor that can be conferred upon any Georgia citizen. I come to this hour with a true sense of humility and with a sincere pledge to do my utmost to direct the affairs of Wesleyan College according to the rules and regulations of the Board of Trustees and in conformity to the best traditions of this historic institution.

Perhaps everyone knows that I have been closely associated with the work of Wesleyan for the past fourteen years. I was elected a trustee to succeed the late Reverend Osgood F. Cook. Sometime after my election to the Board, I was appointed a member of the Prudential Committee. This committee worked with the president, the late Dice R. Anderson, in modernizing the social activities of the students. This committee prepared and submitted to the president the rules that now govern the social functions.

It was my good fortune to hold membership in the organization that enterprised and completed the campaign for funds to repurchase the college properties.

In 1941, under the presidency of Bishop Arthur J. Moore, I had the honor of serving as Executive Vice-President. When Bishop Moore and I assumed the leadership of Wesleyan, the institution was on probation with the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It should be said that this probation was the result of debt, foreclosure, sale, etc. At the meeting of the Association held in Louisville, Kentucky, in December, 1941, it was voted (and I quote) "to place Wesleyan College on probation with the understanding that unless (1) the debt of Wesleyan be paid; (2) the deficiency judgment cleared; and (3) the title to the institution be restored to the Board of Trustees by the December meeting of the Association, 1942, Wesleyan College will be dropped from the membership of the Association."

This action on the part of the Association was announced in the Macon Telegraph on Saturday morning, December 6, 1941. Everyone knows what happened on December 7, 1941. No one will ever know how much it cost me personally to call together the faculty and students of Wesleyan College on Tuesday morning, December 9, 1941. We met in this building. That hour demanded that I should tell the people assembled the absolute truth concerning the Wesleyan situation. It was a long, involved story, but with the sympathy of everyone present and with the help of the Good Father above, I succeeded in telling that story. My challenge was, beginning at that moment, all of us would work together for the full redemption of Wesleyan's name and her accreditation.

The story of what occurred in the months following is too lengthy to be retold, but mainly it consisted of the following special lines of endeavor: The location of outstanding bonds, the raising of sufficient funds, and their purchase, which was accomplished on August 1, 1942. When these bonds were all in hand it made it possible for us to cancel the deficiency judgment against our institution in the amount of $1,290,623.31. This judgment was cancelled at 11:00 o'clock on the morning of August 7, 1942. This cancellation in turn made it possible for Wesleyan Corporation to deed back the property to the Board of Trustees of Wesleyan College. On Friday, October 2, 1942, Mr. W. D. Anderson, Chairman of Wesleyan Corporation, and I, as Secretary, executed the deed from Wesleyan Corporation to Wesleyan College Trustees covering all the Rivoli Plant, including buildings, land, equipment, etc. On November 3, 1942, we executed the deed conveying all of the Conservatory properties to the College Trustees.

On November 12, 1942, I left the College to accept the pastorate of Mulberry Street Methodist Church. For the past four years I have had no official connection with the College. However, I continued to serve on the Board of Trustees, the Executive Committee and the Finance Committee. Therefore, I am familiar with every transaction of importance, including my vote of approval of every member now on our faculty. These facts are recited as evidence of my intimate knowledge of the trials and triumphs of Wesleyan. In the light of these facts, I here and now declare my implicit faith in Wesleyan, her past, her present, and her future. I confidently believe that, in spite of my many limitations, I do know and appreciate the finest and the best of the true Wesleyan spirit.

A background of intimate knowledge of what might be called the seamy side of Wesleyan College makes it difficult to be too optimistic in one's prophecy. It does prohibit the use of platitudes. It would perhaps be wiser to make no statement concerning the future. However, the occasion seems to demand that I state a few definite objectives. The following will embody my concept of a successful enterprise:

First, it is my conviction that the welfare—physical, mental and spiritual—of the students is of paramount importance. Often those of us who are older, and have in our hands the management of affairs, forget the chief function of an educational institution. My action on this occasion, and all others, will be governed in the light of the best interests of the students now in our dormitories and those who will enter in the years to come.

Second, my philosophy of the primary use of money in an institution of this kind is to maintain an adequate faculty. This means better support to the men and women who are now giving their leadership to the training of our students, and also the strengthening of the faculty in the future. It shall be my purpose to give every assistance possible to every one employed to teach in our classrooms. Greatness, like holiness, can never be defined except in terms of personality. My continuous policy will be to bring to this college men and women of outstanding leadership, added faculty members, special lecturers and distinguished visitors.

Third, I shall remind myself each day that I, as President of Wesleyan, am but a trustee of an institution that belongs to someone else.

The greatest temptation is for a trustee to forget his trusteeship. It is not easy to designate properly the ownership of Wesleyan. One fact stands out, namely, this is not my institution; I am her trustee. When we attempt to ascertain the real owner of this college may we be reminded that in our published literature, Wesleyan is the property of the Florida, the North and South Georgia Conferences of The Methodist Church. This is not all inclusive. Archibald Rutledge in his poem, read at the Sesquicentennial of the Battle of King's Mountain, has this appropriate phrase, "Where there's a sacrifice there is a shrine." For more than a hundred years devout men and women have sacrificed for Wesleyan. An host of the finest young ladies of the country, and especially of this section of our commonwealth, have lived four years of their lives within the walls of Wesleyan. The College has been the beneficiary of the most active period of life of many loyal, talented professors. WHO OWNS WESLEYAN COLLEGE? It is difficult to answer this question. However, with this partial list of benefactors before us, may we all unite in saying that Wesleyan College belongs to the people.

Conscious of the fact that I, as President of Wesleyan, am charged with the responsibility of a trustee of an institution of great worth to the public, I therefore, pledge:

First, that I shall endeavor to give the institution sound, business administration.

Second, that I shall endeavor to expand the facilities of Wesleyan so that more of our finest young ladies will be inclined to come this way for their formal education.

Third, I shall endeavor to encourage and strengthen the teaching force of this institution.

Fourth, I shall endeavor to make Wesleyan so worthwhile to the general public that it will become more and more the symbol of the highest and the best in the culture of our Southland.

Fifth, I will endeavor at all times to remember that the call to the Presidency of Wesleyan is an Holy one. This office to me is as sacred as the altar of the Church.

These are governing principles, and by them I shall be guided in all that I do in the name of Wesleyan College.

There are urgent matters that will have our immediate attention. I ask your sympathetic cooperation as we attempt to work these out.

(1) It is my conviction, based on information from a recent survey of the institution, that we have an unparalleled opportunity in a Liberal Arts College and a School of Fine Arts under one management. It is of utmost importance that a complete integration of these institutions be accomplished as soon as possible. It is my hope that all special benefits to be derived from both of the institutions may be shared by the students of both campuses.

(2) It seems imperative that if Wesleyan is to go forward we must have, as soon as conditions permit, a chapel or an auditorium on the Rivoli Campus. It is equally imperative that the Conservatory be repaired with due regard to both utility and beauty. I promise to work day and night for these major improvements on these two campuses.

(3) We must think in terms of increased endowment if we are to visualize any bright future for Wesleyan. During the past years our endowment has grown considerably. However, it is a sobering fact, when we realize that this growth came from people who were at Wesleyan long before we were born. Here are illustrations of this; the quarter of a million dollars coming to us from the estate of Nettie Dunlap Wortham, who matriculated in 1875, the Chenery Annuity of $100,000 as a result of a love born in the old Conservatory Building when Marian Luce was a student there in 1885, the endowment of the Catherine L. Comer Chair of Fine Arts as a result of influences that touched the life of Mr. Comer's mother who graduated at Wesleyan in 1841, one hundred and five years ago. It should be pointed out that during the past several years the benefactors of Wesleyan College have been called up, and they have responded generously, in the matter of the building of this superb plant at Rivoli and the repurchase of these properties when they were sold from under us. May all of us unite our prayers, gifts, and efforts to the end that our endowment may become adequate to make Wesleyan a truly great college.

Under the Charter and By-laws, your president is vested with authority and has unlimited opportunity for service. In accepting the Presidency of Wesleyan, I can either major on wielding the scepter or becoming her servant. When our Lord was on trial before Pilate, Pilate waved the scepter of authority and said, "Knowest thou not that I have power to release thee and have power to crucify thee?"

The Master replied, "Thou couldst have no power at all against me except it were given thee from above."

In the spirit of another sublime statement of our Lord, "I am among you as he that serveth," I make my decision.

I cannot force myself to believe that I am deserving at all of this high honor. I accept this position because I love Wesleyan and the things for which Wesleyan stands. With the help of our good Father in Heaven, and with the support of you, my dear friends, we will be about our Father's business.

The Loyalty Fund

In the old days the Wesleyan Alumnae Association (oldest alumnae organization in the world—1859) met every three years, and members paid $3.00 dues at each meeting. Later there was an annual meeting, and dues of $1.00 were paid.

Then in 1924 the college established the Alumnae Office with a full-time Alumnae Secretary, an alumnae magazine which went out to all Wesleyan women, local alumnae clubs, class reunions, and a plan for a united alumnae body to further plans for the growth and welfare of their college.

In 1928 The Wesleyan Loyalty Fund was initiated in place of "dues" and alumnae were asked to make one gift to their Alma Mater to cover dues, magazine expenses, and a contribution to the most urgent need of the college, whether it be scholarships, endowment, faculty salaries.

The amount is determined by each donor. It may vary from year to year according to the generosity and means of the giver. A dollar can be a sacrifice for some of us, and the Loyalty Fund gratefully receives many dollar gifts from loyal alumnae. Those who can do so give more.

In 1935 the average gift was $3.91, and the largest gift $100. Last year the average gift was $29.23, and the largest gift $10,000.00. The alumnae gave to their Alma Mater in 1945-46 a total of $22,534.58 for endowment, scholarships, and other needs of the college.

Alumnae of All Classes Unite

The oldest Loyalty Fund contributor last year was in the class of 1873. She is in her nineties, the oldest alumna in Miami, Florida, Ida (Frazer) Turrentine, and her enthusiasm for her Alma Mater is an inspiration to all of her fellow-alumnae.

The class of 1886, more than sixty years out of college, has a high percentage of contributors to the fund each year. Their class secretary, Emma Smith, keeps in touch with each one and sends news of them to the office. Last year 12 members contributed $85.00 to their Alma Mater.

The youngest alumnae, last year's graduates, are already beginning to send in their gifts to their college with messages like: "Here is a check from the first money I have ever made, with my love to Wesleyan."

REMEMBER TO PUT THE WESLEYAN LOYALTY FUND INTO YOUR BUDGET!

Alumnae Council Meeting

Held—December 7, 1946 in the Y.W.C.A. Hall, Rivoli, at 11:00 A.M.

Annie (Gantt) Anderson, presiding; Virginia Anderson, secretary.

Invocation: Mary (Nicholson) Ainsworth, Alumnae Trustee.

The Loyalty Fund: Virginia (Townsend) Munford, Treasurer.

It was voted that the 1946-47 Fund be added to our ALUMNAE BUILDING FUND, and that plans be revived for this building to be erected on the Rivoli campus in the style and spirit of the beautiful Original Building.

Alumnae Building Chairman was announced: Iola (Wise) Stetson, Alumnae Trustee. A large committee will be needed and will be appointed by the chairman.

Clubs: Mary (Robeson) Boardman, Vice-President in charge, heard reports from the following:

Atlanta—reported by Kay (Bailey) Burts, president

Mary (Michaux) McPherson, vice-president in charge of groups

Vera (Brown) Thompson, registrar

LaGrange—Mary (Park) Polhill

Macon—Belle (Ross) Valentine

Montezuma—Mary Addie (Murph)

Mullino

Tifton—Harriet (Evans) Southwell

Messages were read from clubs in Augusta and Washington, D. C.

High School Relations: Roberta (Jones) James, Vice-President in charge announced the members of her committee, all of whom were present: Betty Allen, Milledgeville; Virginia (McClellan) McCowen, Macon; Mary Ann (Mathews) Pease, Columbus.

Purpose: To have one alumna in each town informed about Wesleyan, about changes in curriculum, dates of contests, etc., so that she can help in selecting the best high school students for Wesleyan.

Continuing Education: Resolution presented by Linda (Anderson) Lane, and adopted:

That a Forum for the study of the history and culture of other nations be held annually by the faculty and alumnae at the same time as the Alumnae Council Meeting.

Also, that for 1947, we invite Dr. Florence J. Sherriff, head of the department of history, and for some years a teacher in China, to conduct it, assisted by our students from China.

Memorials: Polly (Pierce) Corn, Chairman of the Committee, made the resolution which was seconded and passed, that:

The 1946-47 Loyalty Fund be directed to the Alumnae Building;

That 50% of it be directed to endowment for this building, and that this be called the Linda McKinney Anderson Endowment Fund, and;

That 50% be directed to the building itself, and called the Edith Stetson Coleman Memorial, and that a room in the building be marked in her honor.

Presentation: Alice (Burden) Domingos presented Dorothy (Blount) Lamar, Alumnae Trustee, with a framed photograph of The Youthful Lanier, and introduced Mrs. Lamar.

Response: Dorothy (Blount) Lamar responded by giving the highlights of the recent unveiling of the bronzes of Sidney Lanier in the Hall of Fame in New York University. She correlated the ideals of Lanier and the standards of Wesleyan, and stressed the importance of the spiritual phase of college life.

Address: Dr. Silas Johnson, president of Wesleyan, spoke on his ideals and plans for Wesleyan. He urged that the alumnae launch plans for an Alumnae House, and advised that 50% of funds raised go toward the building, and 50% toward endowment. Upon invitation of Dr. and Mrs. Johnson, the alumnae were guests in the college dining room for lunch.

Alpha Delta Pi Scholarship

A $250 scholarship to Wesleyan is given each year by the Grand Council of Alpha Delta Pi to some girl who is "daughter, granddaughter, great-granddaughter, or some other relative of a member of the society." The girl must apply in writing to the president of Alpha Chapter of Alpha Delta Pi, stating her qualifications, including high school scholastic standing and activities, reasons for wishing to attend Wesleyan, names of any Alpha Delta Pi relatives.

Application should be made to Mrs. I. L. Domingos, 106 Hines Terrace, Macon, Georgia. Awards must be confirmed by the Grand Council.

Speech Department Presents "Alice In Wonderland"

One of the most finished productions ever given on the Wesleyan stage (or anywhere else, according to enthusiastic reports by the audiences) was "Alice in Wonderland," on December 6 and 7 under the direction of Miss Ruth Jean Simonson, head of the speech department.

The production was truly an all-campus cooperative affair, with the speech department, art department, and music department working together to make it a success.

Technical director Maynard Samsen, who returned to Wesleyan this year after serving in the army, supervised the making of the fifteen sets, mounted on stage "dollies" and the unusual lighting effects which enhanced the play. Ceramic students, under Mr. Gerhard Bosch, fashioned the masks worn by the performers. Mrs. Gerhard Bosch and Mrs. Fran Martin Burns directed their students in designing the costumes. Music for the production was written by Mr. Ralph Lawton and played by him and Mrs. Doris Jelks at two pianos. The attractive souvenir programs had many excellent pictures made by Mr. Howell Gwin, head of the journalism department and teacher of photography.

Two casts of characters were in the two performances, Mitzi Hyman of Cordele and Rosemarie Thomas of Tampa taking turns playing the title role.

Many out-of-town people attended, among them Jane Mulkey, Wesleyan graduate in speech with members of her classes at Washington Seminary in Atlanta, and members of the speech department of G.S.C.W. in Milledgeville.

The cast of Alice in Wonderland also played a matinee performance on Saturday afternoon, and invited as their guests for a dress rehearsal on Thursday evening the children of Macon orphanages, having for them afterward a Christmas tree with gifts of candy for all.

Don Cossack Concert At Wesleyan

The internationally famous Don Cossack Chorus of Russian singers appeared in the Wesleyan Conservatory auditorium on January 8 before an enthusiastic audience which overflowed the house. The concert was sponsored by the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Macon for their Scholarship Fund.

Never were the Cossacks in better form! Their appearance in Macon had several unique features. It was in the nature of a reunion for them with their old friend and former member of the chorus, Vladimir Zorin, now head of the Wesleyan voice department. And a part of the program consisted of a group of songs by the Wesleyan Glee Club of 170 voices trained by Mr. Zorin.

When the Wesleyan girls sang "with admirable attention to artistic detail" according to a newspaper review, the Cossacks came out into the audience and gave their rapt attention and enthusiastic approval. When the Cossacks sang "with a brilliancy which the passing of the years has been unable to diminish" the Wesleyan girls and all the audience called, "More! More!"

The Wesleyan Glee Club, with Rosaline Gilmore (daughter of Rosaline Jenkins Gilmore, '19, as president) sang "Life," by B. Huhn, "Mists" by O. Respighi, "Ma Banjo" by W. Dichmond, "Go Down, Moses," by H. Burleigh, and "Little David" by N. Cain.

When the curtain rose after a brief intermission following the first group of Cossack songs, the Wesleyan girls made a beautiful picture against the dark backdrop, and many of the audience were reminded of a description of one of the earliest Wesleyan commencements:

"They were dressed all in white and looking like angels." Their singing showed their tutelage under an excellent and experienced teacher. They were accompanied ably on the piano by Mrs. Doris O. Jelks of the Wesleyan faculty.

Wesleyan alumnae, who had labored for weeks to make the occasion a success, felt amply repaid. By the time the doors opened it was evident that there would not be a vacant seat in the house, and many alumnae gave up their seats to music lovers from Macon and out-of-town and stood at the back of the auditorium.

Belle (Ross) Valentine is president of the Macon Club. Florence (Trimble) Jones, vice-president in charge of benefits was General Chairman. Mary Lou Barton served ably as ticket chairman, Margaret (Murphy) Martin, treasurer, and her husband, had charge of the box office.

Scores of loyal alumnae sold tickets, made innumerable telephone calls, helped with radio publicity, distributing posters, etc. One of the greatest pieces of luck they had was that Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, '26, moved to Macon from Cleveland, Ohio last fall and took charge of the publicity in her usual efficient manner (the result, she says, of her training under Miss M. Virginia Garner formerly of the Wesleyan journalism department).

Thanks to the Cossacks and to Mr. Zorin, Wesleyan and Macon have a lasting memory of a happy occasion, and the Wesleyan Alumnae Scholarship Fund the money for its scholarships to six outstanding Macon High School students for next year!

Gifts to the Library

In memory of Linda (McKinney) Anderson, A.B. '93, Mr. and Mrs. Mayberry Rozar of Macon are placing in the Wesleyan library Albert Sweitzer's two-volume work, J. S. Bach. It is being imported from London and will be in constant demand by music students.

Another volume given to the library in memory of Linda (McKinney) Anderson is Bach, a Biography by Charles Sanford Perry. It is an English publication which has long been needed by students of music, and is the gift of Mrs. Doris Onderdonk Jelks of the music faculty.

Mr. John McKay, Jr. presented to the Conservatory the new Historical Anthol- ogy of Music, compiled by Archibald Davidson and Willi Apel and published by the Harvard University Press. This is a very interesting arrangement of selections of oriental, mediaeval, and renaissance music, in a book of beautiful format.

In memory of Miss Iris Lilian Whitman, Miss Nanette Rozar has presented Mexico South by Miguel Corarrubias, a book whose text and colorful illustrations will delight anyone interested in the Latin America so dear to Miss Whitman's heart.

A valuable addition to the Library is the 12-volume set of the Smithsonian Scientific Series, published by the Smithsonian Institution. This was given by Mr. B. E. Willingham of Macon. The material in these volumes is both authentic and interesting and the set contains a wealth of carefully chosen plates.

Shortly before Christmas Lillie (Rowan) Hutchinson, A.B. '09, wrote that she was sending to her Alma Mater the original manuscript of her book, a metrical version of the Psalms. Only a few weeks after its arrival, Wesleyan friends heard with sorrow of the death of this alumna following an emergency operation.

A recent gift of $100 from Jessie (Munroe) Dickey of Atlanta adds to the fund established in honor of this alumna of 1887 by her husband, the late Bishop James E. Dickey in 1924. This fund is for the purchase of English literature. Among the purchases last year were two sets of the definitive ten-volume edition of Sidney Lanier, edited by Charles R. Anderson of Macon, son of Gertrude (Roberts) Anderson. One set has been placed in circulation and one will be preserved in the Georgia Room.

"Mrs. Dickey's love for the college and her unflinching loyalty have been an inspiration to all of us," says Wesleyan's librarian, Katharine Carnes. "Whenever we paste in a bookplate for the Dickey books I am reminded of what this daughter of Wesleyan and her family have meant to the college."

Her daughter, Annie (Dickey) Jones, graduated in the class of 1913, and her son-in-law, the Rev. H. H. Jones, is a trustee. Three of their lovely daughters have graduated at Wesleyan: Jessie Munroe (Jones) Whitmore in 1940; Elizabeth (Jones) Rutland in 1945; and Laura Jones in 1946. The fourth daughter, Claire, plans to come to Wesleyan next year.

Jessie (Munroe) Dickey's other three daughters also came to Wesleyan; Julia, 1912, late wife of Dr. C. B. Boyd of Emory; Jessie, A.B. 1915, widow of Robert Strickland, Jr., Atlanta banker who died in 1946; and Claire, now Mrs. J. Frank Carreker of Decatur, whose daughter, Julia, is in the sophomore class today.

Her two sisters, Bessie (Munroe) Davidson and Daisy (Munroe) Covington were at Wesleyan in the 1890's. Her nieces and greatnieces who are alumnae are: Claire (Munroe) Bates, '07; Edith (Munroe) Askew, '19; Mary Gray (Munroe) Cobey, '34; Margaret (Munroe) Thrower, '35; Edith Bates, '37; and Edith (Askew) Johnson, '43.

Wesleyan's Chinese Students

Wesleyan is happy to have this year nine Chinese students, five of them just arrived from the Orient, one having come over last year, and three American-born Chinese.

Their pretty, foreign dresses give an interesting touch which is reminiscent of the days when the now-famous Soong sisters were students. When they feel a bit homesick they remember the courage of the pioneer of Chinese students at Wesleyan, E-ling Soong (now Madame H. H. Kung), who was only 14 when she came to Wesleyan to enter "sub-freshman." Until 1908, when her sisters, Chung-ling and May-ling (now Madame Sun Yat Sen and Madame Chiang Kai-shek) followed her, she was the only Oriental student on the Wesleyan campus!

Today's students are using their American names to make things easier for their college mates. They are: Katherine Choy, Lenora Kwok, Georgiana Hsueh, Helen Wei, Paula Yu, Gloria Euyang, Annie Lin Chu, Grace Lin Chu, and Ruth Wong.

Annie and Grace Lin Chu (sisters) are from Greenville, Mississippi, and Ruth Wong from Phoenix, Arizona, and they know no more about the country of their forefathers than do their fellow students from Georgia. But the others enjoy comparing notes on the differences and similarities in the two countries. They wear their own costume, for the most part, and, although all of them speak English, they enjoy lapsing into Chinese at times when they are with one another.

Katherine, Lenora, Georgiana, Helen, and Gloria all studied at McTyiere School in Shanghai, the Methodist mission school which the Soongs also attended, and in which so many Wesleyan alumnae have taught. Georgiana and Helen also attended St. John's University in Shanghai.

Paula Yu, the daughter of the Chinese Ambassador to Italy, comes from Tientsin, and is a graduate of Southwestern Association University at Kunming. She is an advanced student, and her special interest is in science, in which she is doing outstanding work at Wesleyan.

Gloria Euyang, who came to Wesleyan last year while her sister, Mary, was in college, has taken the entire group of new girls under her wing and initiated them into the ways of an American campus. Most of them were her friends back in Shanghai, and it was because of her enthusiastic accounts that they wanted to come to Wesleyan. She is a junior this year, and holds the Pilot Club Scholarship. Her sister, Mary, graduated last year and was married to David Loh of Shanghai in the Wesleyan parlors.

It is good to have contact again with young people of China! Before the war years many Chinese girls studied at Wesleyan, and students of 1928 will recall that during that year there were eight Oriental students: Agnes Mok, Loo Mei How, Loo Yee How, Vong Jung Chow, Ling Nyi Vee, Sing San Chu, Ging San Chu, and Ada Lee. At a recent Commencement one of the alumnae guests was Nyok Mei Pan (Mrs. L. T. Chen) who was in the class of 1918.

The bond between Wesleyan and China is still strong. Madame Chiang, speaking to a Wesleyan audience in 1943 when she came to the college to receive the honorary Doctor of Laws degree said: "Often we three sisters sit and chat about you, our Southern friends, whom we feel to be almost members of our own family. We hold you in great affection and esteem."

On Nostalgia

Adelaide Wallace, A.B. '46, editor of The Watchtower her junior year and of The Vetteropt her senior year, daughter of Anne (Douglas) Wallace, '24, wrote the following editorial for the Thanksgiving Watchtower:

Since May, 1946, we habitants of the outside world, more intimately known in college circles as the class of '46, have longed and waited for Thanksgiving. Quite characteristic of the graduates and so as not to be termed queer, we have tossed our heads and cynically sneered our happiness at being "out," but deep in our hearts has been an eager anticipation for Thanksgiving, the day of days at Wesleyan when we all go back.

You see, for four years one longs to be "out" and free of it all only to spend a goodly portion of the remainder of life wishing to be back. For when a little maid casts aside things like saddle shoes and text books and fraternity pins and swaps it all for a bit of cardboard on leather termed A.B. she has time to sit back a moment to remember the things that became rather important after four years.

Wesleyan for us . . . new faces destined to become old friends . . . gay greeting and tearful good-byes . . . pranksters and characters . . . the Pharm, the rickety bus rides and long walks in the woods . . . Violet Hill and Wiggins Lake . . . the tipsy bridge nearing the "cabin" . . . the pride in OLD COLLEGE'S dome standing high for over a hundred years.

Wesleyan for us . . . Stunt Night, the satisfaction of working close together, the thrill of achievement and the vibrant, exciting minutes before the cup is awarded . . . Thanksgiving: eager anticipation, committees and planning; the stillness of an early morning service; sportsmanship and teamwork, Hallelujah, Tri-K and Lil' Liza Jane; sisterhood, nostalgic vision of oneness . . . Christmas banquets, formal dances, basketball games and swimming meets.

Wesleyan for us . . . the feeling of transcendental awe with each coming of the spring when we were struck all over again with the beauty of our campus . . . midnight sessions when we settled the problems of the world; then early morning dashes to class . . . Student chapel, our very own, where we laughed with the hiking club and moaned with each reading of the Constitution . . . letters signed "with love and kisses, Katharine P. Carnes" . . . lectures that inspired us . . . teachers who grew nearer and dearer through the years . . . the crowded par-

At Wesleyan For Thanksgiving

An unusually large number of "old girls" were back for Thanksgiving this year. It is primarily an occasion for the youngest alumnae class, but some girls of former years joined in the fun, too. Mary (Banks) Morcock, '30, with her two children; Emily (Whitaker) Vickers, '42, with her little daughter; Nell Davis, Lilly Lake, and Mary Louise Willcox, '43; Elinor Rees, '44; May Sue (Carrington) McKay and Mary Frances Webb, '45, were among the spectators at the games.

1946 was represented by: Virginia Ball, Dorothy Belle Barge, Sara Clary,

lors during exams, typewriters sounding forth with the dawn . . . community excitement over flowers and telephone calls and special dates . . . monitors in cold cream and bobby pins . . . mad dashes to sweep "before Mrs. Parker" . . . anxious moments at the post office . . . Mary Henderson, Nettie and Ella Mae . . . the lines we stood in, the jokes we made, the fun we had.

Wesleyan for us . . . the last singing of the Alma Mater at Commencement, the end of exam weeks when we spent our time at the movies, the last of the parties when we all laughed together . . . friendship and scholarship . . . how can we tell you what Wesleyan is to us . . . with reverence, "Hail Wesleyan, thou emblem of all that is Grand."

Honors For Wesleyan Girls

Gift To the Campbell Collection

Wesleyan College has received a gift of three pieces of sculpture from the artist, Pietro Montana, of New York City. These are additions to a collection of contemporary art assembled for Wesleyan through the influence of an alumna, Helena (Ogden) Campbell. The collection now numbers more than 100 titles, each one the gift of the artist.

Pietro Montana is Italian-born, and studied in Italy. He became an American citizen in 1924, and is a graduate of art of Cooper Union. His paintings and sculpture have been exhibited in Europe and America, and in 1930 he had a one-man show in Rome, Italy, in which one of the pieces which he is giving to Wesleyan was exhibited. Two of them were also exhibited at the Academy of Design in New York.

The titles of the pieces sent to Wesleyan are "Messalina," "Ideal Head," and "Simplicity," and the artist writes that they are "among the few of my works for which I have a close affection." They are all original pieces which have not been duplicated.

Mr. Montana received a gold medal for sculpture at the National Academy in 1931; honorable mention, Allied Artists, 1936; Lindsey Morris Memorial prize, 1938; medal of honor for sculpture, 1942; first prize for sculpture, Hempstead, L. I., 1945. He has made numerous bas-reliefs, portraits and busts, and portraits in oils.

The Wesleyan collection was begun in 1934 when Mrs. Campbell, herself an artist with studios in New York, had the idea of securing for her alma mater representative works by contemporary artists. She asked her artist friends, and others whom she knew by reputation, if they would like to be represented in a permanent collection at Wesleyan. The generous response of the artists is a tribute to Mrs. Campbell and shows their esteem for her judgment in selecting the artists for this collection.

The collection may be seen in the Olive Swann Porter Building at Wesleyan.

Changes in Faculty and Staff

Miss Jean Murray, instructor in English, resigned at the end of the first semester. Her classes will be taught the second semester by other members of the department.

Miss Elizabeth Armstrong, associate professor of home economics, resigned after the first semester. She was replaced by Mrs. Norwood Waterhouse.

Miss Annette Walker, secretary to the president, resigned in December to accept a position in Macon. Miss Frances Strohecker, former secretary of Mulberry Street Methodist Church, became secretary to the president on January 1. Miss Strohecker held this position in 1941-42, when Bishop Moore was president of the college.

Miss Jean Courtright of Chicago has been appointed teacher of costume and fashion design.

Alfred Jenkins Named Vice-Consul to China

Alfred Jenkins, son of the late Dr. C. R. Jenkins, president of Wesleyan from 1912-1920 and Mrs. Jenkins, has been appointed vice-consul to the Republic of China, and reported for duty at Peiping in November.

Wesleyan alumnae and friends who were at Commencement will remember Alfred's moving speech presenting to the college the portrait of his father given by the Jenkins family. He was at that time planning to go to China.

A recent newspaper article said of him:

"Mr. Jenkins received his degree from Emory where he made an outstanding scholastic record. He was later inducted into the Army Air Corps, then transferred to Washington with Army Intelligence, specializing in Oriental Affairs. He was commissioned a lieutenant. After returning to civilian life, he completed his work for a master's degree at Duke and then had diplomatic training with the State Department.

"Mr. Jenkins comes from a family where service to humanity is put first. His father was one of six brothers to become Methodist ministers.

"It was at Wesleyan College, where his father was president, that young Alfred became interested in Oriental affairs and customs. There it was his privilege as a small boy to know the three Soong sisters."

Gifts to the Historical Collection

Anne (Bates) Haden, Vice-President of our national Alumnae Association in charge of our Historical Collection, in reporting recent gifts to this collection, says:

Anne (Bates) Haden

Hermione (Ross) Walker, 1892, visited the Wesleyan campus in the fall, and gave to the library much valuable historical material relating to Wesleyan and Macon.

Included in the gift are: a poetry book, letters, etc., which belonged to Annie E. (Nutting) Walker, 1868; diaries of Anne de Roulac Rose; typed copy of the Journal of Simri Rose, 1830, also clippings and pictures; copies of the letters of William Redding Ross, 1863, 1866; recollections and other writings of Edgar A. Ross; scrapbook, pictures and poetry of Annie (Rose) Ross; newspapers containing articles by Mrs. Edgar A. Ross from the Macon Telegraph, 1852.

Hermione (Ross) Walker's family was closely associated with the founding of Macon. Simri Rose, pioneer of Macon, who laid out the beautiful wide streets, started the first newspaper, planned Rose Hill Cemetery, and planted hundreds of trees and shrubs, was her grandfather. His first newspaper, "The Bull Dog," was written by hand and sent around to subscribers by messenger.

Much interesting material on the early days of Macon will be found in the papers which this alumna has given to her Alma Mater. In 1943 Hermione (Ross) Walker gave a fund to establish at Wesleyan the Ross-Walker Award in memory of her mother and her husband's mother, Wesleyan classmates of 1868, Annie (Rose) Ross and Annie (Nutting) Walker. The income from this endowment is used as an annual award to a Wesleyan senior for excellence in spoken or written English.

In making this gift, Hermione (Ross) Walker writes:

"I am glad to give this material of historic value to the college that I love and that my mother loved. She never attended any other school, and was the most gifted and accomplished woman I have ever known. She sent me to Wesleyan for five years of association with the gifted and conscientious teachers and happy loyal students. I look back with pleasure to every day of it.

"I believe that Wesleyan is the college to have a 'Southern Historical Collection.' We should save in a southern institution authentic records of the South. Wesleyan's fireproof buildings offer a safe place for all the worth while records of the South's unpublished history which have not already been collected.

"Let's ask the girls of today to find Grandmother's and Grandfather's old letters, diaries, wills, ancient newspapers in attics and plunder rooms, go over them, sort them, label them, place them in large envelopes and send them to Wesleyan for safe keeping so the students may have access to indisputable records of our southern people."

Dr. Binns Honored At Mercer

Dr. Walter Pope Binns, president of William Jewell College and husband of Blanche (Mallery) Binns, B.M. '18, received the honorary LL.D. degree from Mercer University on January 14 at Founder's Day exercises at which he was speaker.

Dr. Binns spoke on "The Christian College in the Modern World," stressing the place of such institutions today. Germany, said Dr. Binns, offered an example of what education under complete government control can do. He said that state supported schools have their place, but Christian schools must be adequately supported to insure spiritual progress. He reviewed the history of Mercer, paying tribute to Jesse Mercer and others who created the university. He lauded Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer, for the progress the university has made during his administration.

Augusta Club

The Augusta Wesleyan Club, with Ida (Stephens) Williams as president, gave a luncheon in September honoring the Augusta students who were leaving for Wesleyan, Carolyn Lee, Terry Miller, Margie Gibbs, Eugenia Toole, and Barbara Smith.

Lavender and purple were used in the decorations, and each of the honorees was presented with a lavender chrysanthemum tied with purple ribbon.

The second meeting of the year was held on November 26 at the home of Helen (Ouzts) Dupree in her new home on Bransford Road Extension, with Miss Mary Finch, a returned missionary, speaking on Japan.

Jacksonville Club

Virginia (Matthews) Johnson, who has served efficiently as president of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Jacksonville, writes: "Naomi (Sinks) Paschal of our club has gone to Korea to teach English in a university under the auspices of the War Department.

Virginia's husband is studying at the University of Florida, and after going back and forth to be with him for weekends, she has resigned her position in the Jacksonville schools and moved to Gainesville, where she will study also. Her address is T-34-A, Alachua Air Base, University of Florida Housing, Gainesville.

The Jacksonville Club had a meeting at Virginia's while the Wesleyan girls were home for the holidays. Among the visitors were Sara (Clements) Beasley's daughter, June (Beasley) Johnson, '46, who was visiting her, and Jane Foley, A.B. '42, who was in Jacksonville and saw the notice in the paper. Thelma Brownnett, B.F.A. '46, gave the program on "Graphic Art."

Former Teacher Visits Wesleyan

Mrs. Malcolm Schuler, who as Miss Mabel Rivers taught "Expression" at Wesleyan for two years during Judge Dupont Guerry's administration, was a visitor on the campus in January. She now makes her home in Chappaqua, N. Y., giving her interest and talents generously to civic and church work, according to her friends. Her only son, Malcolm, Jr., spent two and a half years in aviation during the war and was decorated for bravery. Mrs. Schuler was delighted with the interesting work at Wesleyan Conservatory and with the new campus at Kivoli, and said that she knows no college with more beauty than Wesleyan has.

Wesleyan Alumna Honored by Macon

Eugenia Dorothy (Blount) Lamar, Wesleyan graduate and Alumnae Trustee of her Alma Mater, was honored by her home city in November with an "Appreciation Dinner" at which more than 200 leading citizens of Macon gathered to express their love for her.

Beautiful souvenir programs carried her picture, and a write-up of her many activities, civic, educational, religious, and patriotic. The crowning achievement of her career, the placing of the Sidney Lanier bronzes in the Hall of Fame, has a special place in the booklet, the Order of Exercises of the occasion on October 3, 1946, and the address made by Mrs. Lamar at that time being given in full.

Douglas Southall Freeman, author and editor of The Richmond News Leader, wrote of the dinner honoring Mrs. Lamar:

"The whole of the South stands around the table at which tonight you honor Mrs. Walter Lamar. No woman of our region more perfectly understands the spirit of the Confederacy and none has a higher conception of what the old Southern traditions are to be hereafter. Her diligence is monumental but her catholicity in all that concerns the Confederate cause is no less amazing. She knows its literature as well as its heroes and of those things, though she herself is far too young to have been a direct participant, she is in spirit a sharer. I love to think of her not only as a supreme daughter of the Confederacy, but as a supreme daughter of America. Congratulate her, please, in my name and in that of all other Southern writers and permit me to be among those who do homage to her."

RESOLUTIONS

(Passed by the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Macon on November 19)

RESOLVED: That we, the Wesleyan Alumnae of Macon, join with others of the Southland in expressing to one of our number, Eugenia Dorothy (Blount) Lamar, our great pride in her civic and patriotic leadership. The vigorous and tireless efforts which she has made through the years to preserve all that was noblest and best in our Southern tradition have had far-reaching results, and we rejoice with her in the crowning achievement of the placing of the Sidney Lanier bronzes in the Hall of Fame.

RESOLVED ALSO: That we take this opportunity, as she is receiving the homage of her fellow-citizens, of expressing to her our own special appreciation for all that she means to us and to her Alma Mater, as the first Alumnae Trustee in Macon, as a member of the present Board, as Narrator in the Wesleyan Centennial Pageant in 1936, as able toast-mistress on many memorable occasions, as moving spirit in many plans for the welfare of Wesleyan and as indefatigable worker in carrying out these plans, as loyal alumna, and as benefactor of her Alma Mater.

Wesleyan Alumna Chosen For Important Committees

In December Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly, A.B. 1901, was appointed by President Truman as one of 15 persons on his COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS. This committee, on which are also the president of Dartmouth, the president of the University of North Carolina, the president of the General Electric Company, and other outstanding leaders, will study the situation and recommend legislation for more effective protection of the civil liberties of individuals.

Not only this, but Mrs. Tilly was called in January to Washington to meet with a group to form the ORGANIZATION FOR AMERICAN DEMOCRATIC ACTION. Of this, Columnist Marquis Childs says: "This group will meet in an effort to shape a program on which it is hoped eventually that millions of Americans can agree. In many ways this meeting is likely to have an importance beyond the treatment it will receive in the news."

In December also Mrs. Tilly was appointed on THE NATIONAL COMMISSION ON CHILDREN AND YOUTH, a part of the Children's Bureau.

Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly, Secretary of Christian Social Relation, WSCS, of the Methodist Church, has long given herself unselfishly and wholeheartedly to the cause of understanding and harmony among people of all races, creeds, and walks of life. This recognition of her ability, her appointment on important committees, gives her a great opportunity for service.

Mrs. Tilly was one of the first Alumnae Trustees of Wesleyan, elected to the Board in 1925 with Dorothy (Blount) Lamar and Lucy Lester.

"Librarians In Uniform"

Margaret Hatcher

The Library Journal for December, 1946, carried an article, "Librarians in Uniform" by Margaret Hatcher, Wesleyan A.B. '31, who is this year back at her Alma Mater as a member of the library staff after serving overseas with the armed forces.

The Journal says of her: "Miss Hatcher, a Wesleyan College graduate, secured her library degree from Emory University. After being librarian at Camp Wheeler, Ga., she became overseas librarian at Mailly Sub Area, France, and at Oise Immediate, France. Then she became Command Librarian of American Graves Registration, Versailles, France. She received a very fine letter of commendation from the C.O. of AGRC when she left that post for the States last August."

The article tells of the work of the librarians, fresh from the States and the comparative orderliness of well run libraries, often in bombed-out buildings, in Nissen huts set in the midst of dusty or muddy fields. The girls retained their sense of humor as they rolled up their sleeves and went to work, and as long as the armies were stationed in Europe helped the boys to forget their longing for home through the magic of reading.

Rich's Sponsors Wesleyan Radio Program

Rich's of Atlanta is presenting a series of radio programs by the Wesleyan Radio Work Shop, under the direction of Mrs. Anne Griffin of the Wesleyan speech department.

The series of dramatizations, "Because There Is a Georgia" will tell of Georgia's influence on America. They began Thursday, January 23, and continue each Thursday from 8:30 to 8:55 over the following stations: WMAZ, Macon; WRDW, Augusta; WALB, Albany; WRGA, Rome; WGAU, Athens; WTOG, Savannah; WGST, Atlanta; and WAYX, Waycross.

Mildred Collins, A.B. '45, one of the four Wesleyan alumnae employed by Rich's in connection with their sponsorship of the Wesleyan Radio Work Shop, visited the college recently to get material for the first broadcast, on the founding and early history of Wesleyan. Dorothy Jane Wilson, B.F.A. '45, daughter of Bernice (Cross) Wilson, is the narrator.

Announcements of the programs went out to all Wesleyan alumnae in January.

Alumna Author Is Guest In Macon

Louise (Frederick) Hays, A.B. 1900, State Historian and author of the recently published book, "The Hero of Hornet's Nest," a biography of Elijah Clark, Georgian of Revolutionary fame, was the guest of the Macon Woman's Club in January.

She spoke at the Washington Library at 11:00 a.m., and was honor guest at a luncheon given by members of the Woman's Club.

Collecting and preserving historical material is not only Louise's job, but her very interest as well. The "dry old records" which most people find dull, she knows to be full of interest, humor and pathos.

One of the items in the Wesleyan historical collection is a photostatic copy which she gave of a letter written by her grandfather, Dr. Benjamin F. Keene, on June 15, 1846, to his daughter, Lucinda, a student at Wesleyan at that time. It admonishes her to prepare for the "Examination" which he expects to attend, and says, "If I do come, where will I find my Lucinda—in the front rank? I don't mean in dress or finery, these are but small matters, but in Mind and Manners."

CLASS NOTES

Alumnae Day is May 31, 1947!

1875

Langdon Quin, Jr., grandson of the late Bettie (Dubose) Quin, will be married in the spring to Jean Lockridge of Atlanta.

1876

Lina Solomon, granddaughter of the late Lillian (Roberts) Solomon, '76, daughter of the late Lina (Bardwell) Solomon, 1911, niece of Jane (Bardwell) Peeler, '06, and sister of Lora (Solomon) McCord, '34, was married in November to Carling Schatzman, brother of Dolores (Schatzman) Smith, '40.

1879

Pearl (Napier) O'Daniel, Macon, was honored by a birthday party which the Mallory Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church gave on her 84th birthday. She has been a member of the class for over 40 years.

1886

Emma Smith says that her life is a full and happy one, even though she has retired from teaching, and she finds herself involved in many activities in the city.

She was delighted to report that Blanche (Hall) Neel is sufficiently recovered from her broken hip to be out some now, and has taken some drives in the lovely fall weather.

Florence Irene Leonard writes from Fairbanks, Alaska: "I have been in Alaska more than 16 months, having spent three months in Sitka, the ancient capital of Alaska, six months in Juneau, the modern capital, one month in Skagway, which means 'cruel north wind' (and my experience there justifies the appellation), and six months in Fairbanks, with which I become more and more enamoured every day.

"The charm of Fairbanks is its gentleness. Everything about it seems gentle. Until a week ago we had almost no wind, and when the rain falls, usually at night, we know nothing of it until next morning. No hail fell during the summer, all of which is so very different from Colorado with its blustery rain and hail storms. The first flake of snow fell on October 18, and have had no severe cold as yet.

"The housing situation is acute, as many of the soldiers who were stationed here during the war decided to return, bringing their families with them.

"I celebrated my 78th birthday in October, and am anticipating New Year's Day when I can say 'Next year I will be eighty!' It's fun to count the mile posts when one's health is perfect and one's faculties unimpaired. Much of my time is spent in reading and writing, and I have no need of glasses. I can walk long distances without tiring. Life is a joy to me, and I think of our Lord's saying, 'E'en down to old age, all of my people shall prove my sovereign, eternal, unchangeable love'."

The class of 1890 will be grieved to learn of the death of Anna (McGehee) Whittington on October 25. She was the wife of a retired Methodist minister, and made her home in Springfield. She is survived by three daughters, three sons, six grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She was prominent in church work for many years, and was a loyal alumna of Wesleyan.

Mary Carr (Gibson) Comer was Wesleyan's official delegate to the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration of Alabama College in Montevallo in October.

Agnes Grace, granddaughter of the late Ruby (Jones) Grace, niece of Martha Ruth (Grace) Blanton, '19, was married in November in Macon to William Krenson, son of Leonora (Neel) Krenson, '18, grandson of Blanche (Hall) Neel, '86, nephew of Blanche (Neel) Earnest, '17, and of Gladys (Neel) Dickey, '19.

May (DeLacy) Jessup of Eastman has a new granddaughter and namesake, born in October to her son and his wife.

Florrie Jean (Richards) Lightfoot sends in this Toast to Wesleyan from Raleigh, North Carolina:

Here's to your college of rosy dreams,
Here's to mine of memories dear,
Here's to the college of olden days,
The college of yesteryear.

Our children's children with rosy dreams,
Our classmates with memories dear,
Our mothers' and grandmothers' olden days
We all seem so wondrous near.

For yours and theirs and mine make ours;
All are united in one,
For the same Alma Mater belongs to us all,
Here's to our Wesleyan!

1896

The class of 1896 will be grieved to learn of the sudden death of Ella Mae Williams on December 12 at her home on High Street in Macon. She was a member of Mulberry Street Church, and active in the work of the Sunday School and missionary circles.

1897

The class of '97 was grieved to learn

In Memoriam

Virginia (Flemister) Clements, 1882
Daisy (White) Lumpkin, 1887
Anna (McGehee) Whittington, 1890
Ella Mae Williams, 1896
Margaret (Weaver) Smith, 1897
Mae (Hazlehurst) Hammond, 1900
Emily (Williams) Kern, 1900
Lillie (Rowan) Hutchinson, 1909
Elizabeth (Studstill) Nelson, 1937

of the death of Margaret (Weaver) Smith of Anniston, Alabama in March, 1946. She was a sister of the late Maria (Weaver) Burks and the late Mary (Weaver) Bethea, and an aunt of Margie Burks and Anna (Weaver) Lee. Her brother, Dr. Olin Weaver of Macon, prominent physician, is a friend and benefactor of Wesleyan. His only daughter, Julia Catharine, graduated at Wesleyan in the class of 1937, and her untimely death in 1940 brought sorrow to her many Wesleyan friends.

Annie (Smith) Bickmore wants her classmates to know of her recent marriage to Mr. E. L. Crump of Atlanta. She and her husband drove by to see her classmate, Lucy (Evans) Stephens in Washington, Ga., in November, but Lucy was in Athens on a visit to her son, Robert, his wife and the children. Annie's address is 583 N. Moreland Ave., N.E., Atlanta.

The class of 1900 will be grieved to learn of the death in October of Mae (Hazlehurst) Hammond of LaGrange after a long illness. She studied art under Miss Mollie Mason, and continued her studies in Germany. Before her marriage she taught art in the public schools of Bainbridge. Her survivors include one son, who served as a chaplain in the war, one daughter, three grandchildren, a brother and two sisters, Emily (Hazlehurst) Napier of Philadelphia, and "Miss Marie" Hazlehurst, beloved teacher of English in Miller High School, Macon.

Emily (Williams) Kern of Macon died after an illness of only one day in January, less than a month after the death of her sister, Ella Mae Williams, A.B. '96, of Macon. She is survived by her husband and one sister, Mrs. Samuel L. Hayes of Charlotte, N. C.

Dr. F. M. Mullino of Montezuma, prominent Montezuma physician, died of injuries received in an automobile accident in December. He was the husband of Mary Addie (Murph) Mullino, and the father of Helen (Mullino) Newton, '20, to whom we extend sympathy. Mary Addie was at Wesleyan in early December to the meeting of the Wesleyan Alumnae Council a few days before Dr. Mullino was hurt. She is doing a fine work as president of the South Georgia WSCS. Dr. Mullino was a benefactor of Wesleyan.

Margie Burks and her friend, Lucy Lester, spent their vacation of seven weeks in Colombia, S. A., flying down and back. The high spot of their trip was the journey up the Magdalena River, 9½ days of travel on a stern wheeler, on and off sand bars. They really saw Colombia, the Colombia of a century ago. It is a perpendicular country, with three spurs of the Andes running the whole length of the country. They crossed one cordillera, and saw a country which few tourists visit since there is nothing to buy, as all manufactured goods are imported and there are no crafts, coffee being the money crop.

1907

Sympathy is extended to Caro (Twitty) Martin in the death of her husband, J. Truitt Martin of Shellman, in November, and to their three Wesleyan daughters, Carolyn (Martin) Craft, A.B. '36, Elizabeth (Martin) Jennings, A.B. '42, and Martha Martin, A.B. '45. Caro and her husband met each other at the first Wesleyan Junior Prom when she was a student.

1909

The class of 1909 will be grieved to learn of the death of Lillie (Rowan) Hutchinson of Oviedo, Fla., January 6 following an emergency operation in Valdosta. She was stricken en route to her old home in Nashville, Ga., for a family reunion honoring the 78th birthday of her mother. She is survived by her husband, Rev. G. W. Hutchinson, Methodist minister, two sisters, six brothers, two sons, Joseph, on the Emory faculty, and Glenn, of Oviedo, and a daughter, Novelle (Hutchinson) Lane, '33, and one granddaughter, Margaret Cecelia Lane.

1912

Petrona (Huber) Hean of Harrisburg, Penn., and her husband plan to come to Wesleyan this year to visit their only daughter, Elizabeth, an attractive member of the junior class. The war brought great sorrow to Petrona in the death of her brother, Lt. Col. Charles Humber, who was chief assistant for intelligence to General W. F. Sharp in the Philippines. After the surrender of the Philippines, he was in prison camps until December, 1944, when he was placed on the prison ship Ceryoku Maru bound for Japan. The ship was bombed, and only 300 of 1,600 men survived the terrible journey. Lt. Col. Humber died on January 22, 1945.

Mary (Robeson) Boardman's husband, William K. Boardman, Jr., is General Plant Supervisor of the Southern Bell Tel. and Tel. Co., in Atlanta. The Davises have a farm at Stone Mountain, Ga., known as "Beechwood," where they raise high-bred Aberdeen-Angus cattle.

Among the exchange magazines which come to the Wesleyan Alumnae Office is one from Holy Cross College in Massachusetts. In a recent issue, in a printed letter from an alumnus in Seoul, Korea, is this news of Wesleyan's Induk Pak:

"Conversation at our party flowed in a peculiar, disjointed way. A number spoke both tongues very well, but as Mrs. Pak In Duk (now working with our office)—a tremendous personality—spoke both fluently and eloquently. Whenever the talk became more animated, we would tend to relapse each into his own speech, as the easiest, and Mrs. Pak would act as general interpreter.

"Writing of her brings to mind her creation of what I regard as one of the best puns in the language, originated by her some years ago when she was lecturing in America. She said then, 'Here in your country I have learned that when you give a party for men only, it is called a stag party. In Korea we have had a nation for men only for so many centuries that it has finally become a stag-nation!'"

Mary Lou Barton was chairman of the women's sales army of the Community Chest in Macon, and did an excellent job of heading this division of the drive. She served as Ticket Chairman for the Wesleyan benefit concert of the Don Cosacks in January.
